

Kenan YILDIZHAN (born 1986) graduated from Yüzüncü Yıl University (YYÜ), Department of Biology Education in July 2010. He has master's degree in botany field at YYÜ Institute of Educational Sciences (2011-2014), also has master's degree in biophysics field at the Institute of Health Sciences at Gaziantep University (2014-2016). He joined Prof. Mustafa Naziroglu' lab at the Biophysics Department of the Suleyman Demirel University in Isparta, where he studied the relationship TRP channels, neurological diseases, calcium signaling and oxidative stress (February 2017). He was Laboratory Lecturers 2nd International Brain Research School. His current position is Research Assistant and current researches are focused on Patch-Clamp, Ca²⁺ Signaling, Cell Culture and Oxidative Stress on neurological diseases.